Cyber Hacks: What is the Difference Between Demoware, Shareware & Freeware?

Demoware, also known as trialware, is a type of software that is distributed to users with limited functionality or for a limited time period. The purpose of demoware is to allow users to test the software before purchasing the full version. Demoware is often used by software companies as a marketing tool to showcase their product and entice users to make a purchase.

Shareware is a type of software that is distributed to users with the option to try the software before purchasing the full version. Unlike demoware, shareware typically has full functionality and is not limited in time. Shareware relies on the honor system, meaning users are expected to pay for the software if they continue to use it after the trial period.

Freeware is a type of software that can be downloaded from the Internet without any cost. No such right to read or modify the source code is given. Moreover, users cannot distribute this software. Examples of Freeware are Adobe PDF, Yahoo Messenger, Google Talk, MSN messenger, etc.
